Get more and save more with a rebate on an ENERGY STAR certified hybrid heat pump water heater.

Behind heating and cooling, water heating is likely your home's second largest energy expense. A properly installed and maintained ENERGY STAR certified hybrid heat pump water heater can significantly reduce your energy use and help you save on your long-term energy costs.

An ENERGY STAR certified hybrid heat pump water heater can save the average household up to $620 a year—or nearly $3,000 over the life of the unit—on energy costs compared to a standard electric water heater. Larger families that typically use more hot water could save even more. Plus, they typically have 10-year warranties.
